Achieving Social Justice through Group Work

The course will consider how all the stages of the group work process may be enhanced by a consideration of social justice issues arising at that stage. Thus, such stages as determining purposes for offering the group, recruiting group members, orienting group members individually and as a group, determining group and individual goals, selecting group activities, ending the group, and evaluating the group can all be enhanced by identifying social justice issues with potential or actual members as well as with the sponsoring agency.

The course will be taught by Dr. Charles Garvin, and will utilize a combination of short lectures, group discussion, and experiential exercises and role plays.

November 12, 2010
9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
Ann Arbor, MI

For More Information
www.ssw.umich.edu/programs/ce/

University of Michigan School of Social Work, provider # 1212, is approved as a provider for social work continuing education by the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB) www.aswb.org, through the Approved Continuing Education (ACE) program. University of Michigan School of Social Work maintains responsibility for the program. Social workers participating in this course will receive 5 continuing education clock hours.